

estate developers and the Committee is trying to save it by a campaign to raise funds to purchase the area.

The United States and Canada are joining forces to eradicate the destructive sea lampreys from the Great Lakes region. This twelve inch eel-like predator of fish has invaded the Lakes and threatens to wipe out the lake trout and other fish. They subsist on other fish by attaching themselves to their victims by their mouths and feeding on their blood. A proposed treaty calls for war on the lamprey by the use of mechanical and electrical eradicators, developed by the Fish and Wildlife Service, in streams of both nations flowing into the Lakes.
