FEDERATION OF NEW YORK STATE BIRD CLUBS

DON ECKELBERRY is one of America's foremost painters of birds. He has been a staff artist for the National Audubon Society and did the illustrations for the Audubon Bird Guide series, the recently published "Our Amazing Birds," and other books. Mr. Eckelberry has traveled all over the United States studying birds and has recently spent some time in Mexico. His home is in Babylon, Long Island.

"... to get full measure
from days afield"

Writes DON ECKELBERRY: "A really good binocular is a necessity to anyone who wishes to get full measure from days afield. There is no other way to enjoy the intimacy of a close-up view short of confinement in a blind. Most of my paintings have been based on what I have seen, at one time or another, through my B&L 7x,35's or my Spotting Scope."
